

Ruled A Suicide

After breaking into a home for food, homeless single mother Ellie Blackwood stares at the dead homeowner lying under a Christmas tree. She's trying to remain anonymous, but knows she's also seen the murderer. She and her half Native American daughter are almost at the end of their rope. Ellie could sell her information to make money to eat, but she'll pay a steep price if the U.S. government finds out. Full-length book of approximately 97,000 words.
