

At the Earths Core (Illustrated)

In Edgar Rice Burroughs At the Earths Core the narrator tells of his travels in the Sahara where he encounters David Innes, the pilot of an amazing vehicle and the owner of a remarkable story. It turns out his experimental iron mole cannot be turned off-course and it drills itself 500 miles through the earths crust, breaking through into an unknown interior world. 1914s At the Earths Core is the first of Burroughs series exploring the hollow-earth land of Pellucidar, followed by the 1915 novel titled Pellucidar.
