

Blood Wolf (Gay Vampire, shifter erotic romance)

Blood Wolf by Sam Abbot After going through a rough break up, William Morrison decides to give internet dating a go. Connecting immediately with the dark and mysterious Vincent, they arrange a hook up at a remote country hotel. When Wills car breaks down in the middle of nowhere, he takes a short cut through Black Pine Wood and after getting hopelessly lost, he is saved from a vicious wolf attack by Vincent, who appears out of nowhere, shrouded by an eerie mist. The hotel that Will thought Vincent had arranged turns out to be a rundown mansion that Vincent owns, and Will begins to regret taking a risk in meeting the stranger, especially when Vincent appears to be hiding something. Despite his doubts, Will finds himself drawn to the other man and when their attraction to each other ignites, Will puts aside his suspicions and gives into his need for Vincent. With the arrival of the full moon, Will has to face up to what he has become and realizes that he may need Vincents help if he is going to survive his new reality. Blood Wolf by Sam Abbot is a short read that contains dark paranormal themes, explicit gay sexual scenes, and graphic language. It is suitable for mature readers only.
