

TUKIS GRAND SALON CHASE

For most hairstylists, the move from the dingy Lovely Beauty Parlour to the upmarket Nancys Factory would be reward enough. Young, gifted Tuki, though, has her sights set on a bigger prize her own salon! However, her well-laid plans start going awry as soon as the striking tattooist Faraaz joins Nancys Factory. Tuki needs to handle Faraazs advances, figure out the mystery behind the disappearance of the elderly, eccentric, brilliant writer Bijoy Dutta and rescue the multilayered Sweetie Bhabhi from destitution. Finding herself at the heart of one storm too many, Tuki decides to run away from the leafy lanes of Bandra to the old-world Portuguese villas of Goa. In the comforting embrace of the village Aldona, she finds herself struggling with her rather untimely attraction to her enigmatic neighbour, the charming Arvind, and sharing house with Bijoy, haunted as he is by the ghosts of his past. Armed with nothing but a pair of scissors and the jigsaw pieces of her broken dream, Tuki has to navigate through Mumbai, Goa and London to find out if the universe is conspiring to make her or break her. Tuki's Grand Salon Chase is her heartwarming tale of finding love and hope in the unlikeliest of places.

An interview with Parul Sharma, on her latest book Tuki's Grand Salon Chase! Chicklit is one of my favourite genres. Mostly, I pick it up as a stress relief after a heavy bout of historical fiction or mythological non-fiction.
