Excerpt: ... FROM E. HOBYS TRANSLATION OF COIGNETS POLITIQUE DISCOURSES 1586 [The following passage is the thirty-firth chapter of Politique 5 Discourses on trueth and lying. An instruction to Princes to keepe their faith and promise. . . . Translated out of French . . . by Sir E. Hoby. R. Newberrie. London 1586. 40. (B. M. 523- g- 13)- The original, by Matthieu Coignet, appeared in Paris in 1584, with the title Instruction aux Princes pour 10 garder la Foy promise: contenant un sommaire de la philo sophie Chrestienne et morale . . . en plusieurs discours.] THAT LYING HATH MADE POETS AND PAINTERS TO BE BLAMED, AND OF THE GARNISHING OF HOUSES. T)LA TO wrote that Poetrie consisted in the cunning inuention 15 , of fables, which are a false narration resembling a true, and that therein they did often manifest sundrie follies of the gods; for this cause he banished and excluded them out of his common wealth, as men that mingled poyson with honie. Besides thorough their lying and wanton discourses they cor a0 rupt the manners of youth, and diminish that reuerence which men ought to carrie towards their superiors and the lawes of God, whom they faine to be replenished with passions & vice. And the principall ornament of their verses are tales made at pleasure, & foolish & disorderly subiectes, cleane disguising a5 the trueth & hystorie, to the end they might the more delight; and for this cause haue they bin thrust out of sundry cities. Among other, after that Archilocus came into Sparta, he was presently thrust out, as soon as they had vnderstood how he had written in his poemes, that it was better to lose a mans 30 weopens than his life, & forbad euer after al such deceitful poesies. Hence grew the common prouerb, that al Poets are lyers.

And it was written of Socrates, that he...
