

Leaning on Grace and Mercy

Since the dawning of time and the beginning of creation, there has always been the division of man, not only because of racism, but also the joined forces of envy and jealousy. Marissa was a woman with a life of great wealth, a life that most people could only dream about and would give almost anything to have only a small portion of her heaven on earth. But for her, it was never enough because she always wanted more and would do anything, against anyone, to obtain her hearts desires. This lady of elegance and beauty, always bedding envy and jealousy, wanted and made her part of the world yield to her demands of control, even if it meant destroying everyone unwilling to do so by the threats of exposure into their private moments, unknown to the world. She was a happy facilitator of cruelty and gave grand introduction to pain and affliction. Marissa bound many with unwanted contracts under her lifetime leadership of control through secrets, sacrificing even the closest of her family members. With her wickedness for deception, she would cast Denver into a world of darkness, gave Grace no mercy, destroyed her mothers happiness, lead the innocence of her sister Leah into troubled waters, hated Hunter, and gave no respect to Gods holy place, the church. No one stood against Marissa, except for a few. Marissa held nothing sacred until her world started to crumble, through lies, deception, and the murder of her children and love ones. This story will lead you through many emotional paths of tangled webs of seduction, greed, lust, adultery and the many other dynamics of jealousy and corruption.
