

Six Years With The Texas Rangers, 1875 To 1881

James B. Gillett realized a good part of his childhood dreams when at about nineteen years of age he was accepted by the Texas Rangers in 1875. He was to have many exciting adventures over the next six years. In the early years most of his time was spent going after Indians that were running wild over Texas, Mexico, and New Mexico. The Indians would steal cattle and horses and in many cases kill the ranchers and their families although sometimes carrying off the children. He and his comrades were called upon to go after Victorio the famous Apache Chief when Victorio was on the war path, killing and stealing, through Texas down into old Mexico and back to the US again. By about 1879 most of the Indian troubles had almost gone away and the Rangers turned their attention to the problem of bank robbers, train robbers, horse thieves, cattle thieves, and murderers. He and his company were to go on the trail of Sam Bass and his gang of train robbers and he tells all about the robbery how much was taken and how and where they found them. Jim Gillett kept a journal during his Ranger years and recounts all this from his own first hand experiences. In later years he had this to say about being a Ranger. I still cherish the memory of my ranger days and am never too busy to see an old ranger comrade and relive with him those six adventurous, happy and thrilling years I was a member of the Frontier Battalion of the Texas Rangers.
